

Attorney General J.B. Van Hollen Invites You to Attend The Department of Justice Seminars on Public Records and Open Meetings

STATE OF WISCONSIN—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

Attorney General J.B. Van Hollen, accompanied by Department of Justice Assistant Attorneys General, is hosting a series of seminars on Wisconsin public records and open meetings laws. These seminars are designed to help government officials and the public better understand their responsibilities and rights under the laws.

“Access to open meetings and public records is an essential component of effective citizen oversight of the workings of our democratic government. Raising awareness, sharing information, and promoting compliance with open meetings and public records law is part of the ongoing mission of the Department of Justice.”

Government officials and employees, members of the media, and the general public are welcome to attend these seminars.

The seminars are FREE, but registration is required as seating is limited.

When registering, you will be requested to provide your name, title, email, organization/agency, zip code, and which seminar you plan to attend.

CLE credit will be applied for.

Online registration will be available at the Wisconsin Department of Justice website (doj.state.wi.us) on September 1, 2010.
