1.1118 Expectation of privacy is reasonable if it has source outside Fourth Amendment, either by reference to concepts of real or personal property law or to understandings that are recognized and permitted by society ................................................................. 1-4

1.1119 Other matters ......................................................................................... 1-4
  1.11191 Appellate review of trial court's finding that defendant had reasonable (i.e., legitimate) expectation of privacy that was infringed by search or seizure at issue (see sec. 1.9822) ..................................................................................... 1-4
  1.11192 In determining reasonableness of expectation of privacy, court must consider totality of circumstances ..................... 1-4
  1.11193 There is lesser expectation of privacy in personal property found in automobiles ......................................................... 1-4
  1.11194 Ownership alone will not establish reasonable expectation of privacy ................................................................. 1-4
  1.11195 Possession alone will not establish reasonable expectation of privacy ................................................................. 1-4
  1.11196 No one has lesser expectation of privacy than arrestee .......... 1-4

1.112 Ultimate standard is reasonableness ................................................................. 1-4

1.113 Need to balance intrusion on individual's Fourth Amendment interests against legitimate governmental interests served by such intrusion ................ 1-6
  1.1131 In general ................................................................................................. 1-6
  1.1132 Balancing test applies in determining whether one has reasonable expectation of privacy (see sec. 1.1117) ......................................................... 1-7

1.114 Must be determined in light of contemporary norms and conditions .......... 1-7
  1.115 Property law (e.g., law of trespass) not controlling, but relevant ........ 1-7
  1.116 All governmental action covered, not simply police activity .......... 1-7

1.117 Other principles ......................................................................................... 1-7
  1.1171 Only governmental action covered, not private activity (see sec. 1.21) ..................................................................................... 1-8
  1.1172 In determining extent of protection afforded by Fourth Amendment, Supreme Court is guided by traditional protections against unreasonable searches and seizures afforded by common law at time of framing of amendment ................................................. 1-8
  1.1173 In determining extent of protection afforded by Fourth Amendment, framers' intent demonstrated by, e.g., enactments of first Congress is relevant ................................................................. 1-8
  1.1174 Gravity of threat alone cannot be dispositive of questions concerning what means law enforcement officers may employ .......... 1-8
  1.1175 The greater the intrusion, the greater must be the reason for conducting search .................................................................................. 1-8
  1.1176 Fact that activity engaged in is not authorized by, or is contrary to, state law does not mean it violates Fourth Amendment ..................................................................................... 1-8

1.118 Other principles (cont’d) ........................................................................ 1-8
  1.1181 Protection not limited to searches for, or seizures of, evidence of criminal conduct ................................................................. 1-8

  1.1183 Reasonableness to be judged by objective standard ................................ 1-8
1.1184 Fourth Amendment protects property even where privacy or liberty not implicated; Fourth Amendment protects property as well as privacy ................................................................. 1-8

1.1185 Fourth Amendment protects against unreasonable seizures even though no search has taken place ................................................................. 1-9

1.1186 Different forms of intrusion trigger different levels of protection .......... 1-9

1.1187 Police safety is of paramount importance ................................................. 1-9

1.1188 When search proper as to particular individual, third party whose privacy interest is also infringed by search has no right to complain (see sec. 1.967) ................................................................. 1-9

1.1189 Fourth Amendment to be construed in light of what was deemed unreasonable search and seizure when Fourth Amendment was adopted .................................................................................. 1-9

1.119 Other principles (cont’d) .............................................................................. 1-9

1.1191 Fourth amendment protects persons, not places or property ................. 1-9

1.1192 Reasonableness requirement of Fourth Amendment does not require that assessment of magistrate or police officer always be correct, but only that it always be reasonable ................................................................. 1-9

1.11921 In general ................................................................................................... 1-9

1.11922 But arresting officer's incorrect, albeit reasonable, construction of statute for violation of which defendant is arrested negates probable cause for arrest if incorrect construction of statute is necessary to make it applicable to defendant's conduct (see sec. 1.31992) ................................................................. 1-9

1.1193 Interests implicated in, affected by, or searches and seizures .................... 1-9

1.11931 In general ................................................................................................... 1-9

1.11933 Interests affected by, or implicated in, seizures ....................................... 1-10

1.1194 In determining reasonableness of expectation of privacy, privacy concepts embodied in the law of a particular state are not decisive ........................................................................................................ 1-10

1.1195 That which is knowingly exposed to public is not subject to Fourth Amendment protection ................................................................. 1-10

1.1196 Fourth Amendment does not require that only the "least intrusive" search practicable can be reasonable under the fourth amendment ........................................................................................................ 1-10

1.1197 Reasonableness to be judged under totality of circumstances ................. 1-10

1.1198 Consistency of police activity with Fourth Amendment is not to be judged by bright-line, or per se blanket, rule ........................................................................................................ 1-10

1.1199 Fourth Amendment to be construed in manner that will serve public interests as well as interests and rights of individual citizens ........................................................................................................ 1-10

1.121 General principles ............................................................................... 1-11

1.122 General principles (cont’d) .................................................................. 1-13

1.1222 Ownership alone will not confer standing (see sec. 1.12232) .......... 1-13
1.1223 Whether person has legitimate expectation of privacy in container that is searched, and thus has standing to challenge search, is not determined by person’s subjective beliefs (see sec. 1.1116) ........................................ 1-13
1.1224 When defendant has no reasonable expectation of privacy in place (e.g., automobile), can he claim reasonable expectation of privacy in his items (e.g., personal travel case belonging to him) that were put in that place? seized, is invalid ................................................................. 1-40

1.22155 For purposes of determining whether seizure continued

  1.22221 In general ............................................................................................. 1-42
  1.22222 Does not require knowledge of right to refuse consent
(see sec. 1.2223) ................................................................................... 1-42
  1.22223 Lawfully seized person (e.g., driver stopped for traffic violation) need not be advised that he is "free to go" before his consent to search may be deemed voluntary
(see sec. 1.2214) ................................................................................... 1-43
  1.22224 Consent granted only in acquiescence to unlawful against finding of voluntariness ................................................... 1-43

  1.22226 Effect of threat to get warrant (see sec. 1.22296) ..................................... 1-43
  1.22227 Consent not involuntary because police fail to inform

  1.22243 By displaying subpoena that did not authorize search or seizure to defendant, which leads defendant to believe that he or she has no choice but to acquiesce in search and/or search .......................................................... 1-44
1.2225 Effect of claim of authority; consent granted only in acquiescence to unlawful assertion of authority is invalid .................................................. 1-44
  1.22251 In general .............................................................. 1-44
  1.22252 Display to defendant of subpoena that did not authorize search or seizure, which leads defendant to believe that officers are authorized to conduct search and/or seizure, renders consent to search invalid ........ 1-44

1.2227 Relationship of right to silence to validity of consent ................................... 1-45
  1.22271 Consent not invalid because consent secured after invocation of right to silence .......................................................... 1-45
  1.22272 Miranda warnings regarding right to silence not required before defendant gives consent to search because consent is not testimonial or communicative statement .......................................................... 1-45
1.2228 Other principles .............................................................. 1-45
  1.22281 Need not be verbal; may be in the form of gesture or conduct .......................................................... 1-45

  1.22283 Validity of consent to search that is obtained by conditioning benefit (e.g., placement on probation) on giving consent .......................................................... 1-45
  1.22284 Fact that person giving consent was in custody does not alone demonstrate that consent was involuntary or otherwise vitiate consent, so long as custody was lawful .......................................................... 1-45

Driver's consent to search of vehicle extends to passenger's jacket left in vehicle at time of search .......................................................... 1-47

Consent to search particular place (e.g., car) for particular object does not permit search of that place for other objects .......................................................... 1-47

Consent to undercover officer to enter home is not necessarily consent to other officers to enter .......................................................... 1-47

Consent to undercover officer to enter home permits undercover officer to summon other police officers to assist in arrest, search or seizure that undercover officer could have performed .......................................................... 1-47

Consent by third party valid if police reasonably believe third party possesses authority to consent, even if he does not (i.e., if third party has "apparent authority" to consent) .......................................................... 1-48
1.2243 Consent by third party is invalid as to occupant of premises who is present and does not consent to search; warrantless search of shared dwelling for evidence, over express refusal of consent by physically present resident, cannot be justified as reasonable as to him on basis of consent given to police by another resident .......... 1-48

1.2244 When consent to search property is given by third party (e.g., landlord) in presence of person (e.g., tenant) who has exclusive possession of property (e.g., premises occupied by tenant), and that person does not object, police may reasonably believe that third party has authority to consent to search of property ................. 1-49

1.2246 Scope of authority of third party to consent to search of premises and scope of consent given .......................................................... 1-49

1.22461 When defendant challenges scope of search of premises conducted with third-party consent, threshold question is whether third party had actual or apparent authority to consent to search of particular area of, or thing on, premises ........................................................................ 1-49

1.22462 Consent of co-occupant of motel room to search of motel room does not permit search of safe for which defendant has key and which is in room, absence showing that co-occupant had actual or apparent authority over safe ........................................................................ 1-50

1.2247 Other matters ......................................................................................... 1-50

1.22471 Burden and standard of proof with respect to question whether search and seizure falls within third-party consent exception to warrant requirement (see secs. 1.91272 and 1.91332) ........................................................................ 1-50

1.4252  How long must officers wait after knock and announcement before entry? ................................................................. 1-101

1.42521  In general ........................................................................................... 1-101

1.42522  When officers are concerned about possible destruction of evidence (e.g., drugs) ................................................................. 1-101

1.4253  Requirement may be dispensed with when no-knock entry needed to protect safety of officers or to prevent destruction of evidence or escape, or if knocking and announcing would be "futile" ................................................................................................. 1-101

1.42531  In general ........................................................................................... 1-101

1.42532  Law enforcement officers only need reasonable suspicion that circumstances justifying no-knock entry are present ................................................................. 1-101

1.4254  Is there an exception to requirement when police have search warrant, supported by probable cause, to search residence for evidence of delivery of drugs or evidence of possession with intent to deliver drugs? ................................................................. 1-102

1.42541  Former Wisconsin rule: Requirement not applicable when police have search warrant, supported by probable cause, to search residence for evidence of delivery of drugs or evidence of possession with intent to deliver drugs ................................................................. 1-102
1.42542 Present rule mandated by United States Supreme Court, overruling former Wisconsin rule: Requirement not subject to blanket exception when police have search warrant, supported by probable cause, to search residence for evidence of delivery of drugs or evidence of possession with intent to deliver drugs; police must have reasonable suspicion that announcement, under the particular circumstances, would be dangerous or futile, or that it would inhibit the effective investigation of the crime ................................................................. 1-103

1.4255 Matters relating to advance authorization for no-knock entry from judge issuing search warrant ......................................................... 1-103

1.42551 Magistrate's decision not to authorize no-knock entry does not remove officers' authority to exercise independent judgment and execute no-knock entry .................. 1-103

1.42552 Even when search warrant authorizes no-knock entry, reasonableness of no-knock entry is determined at time warrant is executed, not at time warrant was issued; reasonable suspicion justifying warrant authorizing no-knock entry may be negated by additional facts that are revealed prior to execution of warrant ........................................ 1-103

1.42553 Failure to seek advance authorization for no-knock entry not fatal, even though grounds for such entry known at time of application for search warrant (see sec. 1.42434) ......................................................................................... 1-104

1.42554 When advance authorization for no-knock entry sought, court reviewing reasonableness of no-knock execution of warrant not precluded from considering facts known to police but not included in search warrant application .......... 1-104

1.42555 Fact that police do not seek advance authorization for no-knock entry in warrant does not bar no-knock entry if circumstances at time of entry justify it ........................................ 1-104

1.4256 Applicability of exclusionary rule to violation of knock-and-announce requirement ..................................................................................... 1-104

1.42561 In general .................................................................................................. 1-104

1.42562 When officer has relied in good faith on authorization for no-knock entry in search warrant ................................................................. 1-104

1.42563 When officer has relied in good faith on Wisconsin Supreme Court's rule creating blanket exception to knock-and-announce requirement when police have probable cause to search premises for evidence of delivery of drugs or evidence of possession with intent to deliver drugs, prior to United States Supreme Court's overruling that blanket exception (see sec. 1.42584) ...................... 1-104

1.42564 When person (e.g., owner of premises entered) complaining about violation was not present at time of entry (see sec. 1.42592) ......................................................................................... 1-104

1.4257 Sufficiency of evidence to justify no-knock entry ........................................ 1-105

1.42571 In general ................................................................................................... 1-105
1.42572 Use of prior arrest record of occupant of premises to be entered in determining whether reasonable suspicion justifying no-knock entry exists ...................................................... 1-105

1.4258 Other matters ..................................................................................................... 1-105

1.42581 May officers rely on generalized experience in drug cases to conclude that no-knock entry needed to protect officers or prevent destruction of evidence, or must that conclusion be based on specific facts of case? ........................................ 1-105

1.42582 When trial court has sustained no-knock entry based on former blanket exception to knock-and-announce requirement when search is for delivery of drugs or possession with intent to deliver drugs because that was rule in effect at time of decision, case must be remanded to trial court to determine whether circumstances existing at time of search justified no-knock entry ........................................................ 1-105

1.42583 Reasonable suspicion that circumstances warranting no-knock entry exist is sufficient to permit no-knock entry even when such entry involves destruction of property ........ 1-105

1.42584 When officers relied, in objective good faith, on Wisconsin Supreme Court's rule creating blanket exception to knock-and-announce requirement when police have probable cause to search premises for evidence of delivery of drugs or evidence of possession with intent to deliver drugs, prior to United States Supreme Court's overruling that blanket exception, failure to knock and announce provides no grounds for suppression of evidence ................................................................. 1-106

1.42585 Federal statute codifying knock-and-announcement requirement is subject to common-law exceptions ........................................ 1-106

1.42586 Knock and announcement not required when executing search warrant against unoccupied premises ........................................ 1-106

1.42587 Requirement of knock and announce is imposed by state constitution .................................................................................... 1-106

1.42588 Reasonableness of no-knock entry must ultimately be judged by consideration of circumstances as they existed at time of entry; whenever reasonableness of no-knock entry is challenged, state must present evidence of circumstances known or reasonably suspected by police to exist at time of warrant execution that would justify no-knock entry .................................................................................... 1-106

1.4259 Other matters (cont'd) ...................................................................................... 1-106

1.42591 Destruction of property in executing no-knock entry (see sec. 1.42662) .................................................................................... 1-106

1.42634 Search must cease when objects of search have been found ............................................................................................................. 1-108
1.42635 Right to subject items found in search to examination designed to bring out characteristics not visible to unaided human senses (e.g., developing film, scientific analysis, etc.) to determine whether they fall within search warrant ........................................................................... 1-108

1.42638 Effect of seizure of items not described in warrant (i.e., items outside scope of warrant) or of other activity not authorized by warrant on admissibility of seized items that were described in warrant (i.e., items within scope of warrant); generally, remedy is to suppress only items seized outside scope of warrant, but when search is conducted with flagrant disregard for limitations found in warrant, suppression of all evidence seized is required ........................................................................................................................................ 1-108

1.4264 Scope of search and seizure under warrant (cont’d) .................... 1-109

1.42642 Search may extend to all items found on premises that are plausible repositories for objects named in the search warrant: exception to general rule (search may not extend to repositories worn by, or in physical possession of, persons whose search is not authorized by warrant) .......................................................... 1-109

1.62 Search For Evidence, Or Entry Into Or Search Of Premises, Based On Exigent
Circumstances ............................................................................. 1-177
1.621 General principles ................................................................. 1-177
1.6211 In general ........................................................................ 1-177
1.6212 Exigent circumstances resulting from law enforcement officer's conduct cannot justify fourth amendment intrusion; law enforcement officer cannot create exigency used to justify warrantless search .......................................................... 1-178

1.62121 In general ........................................................................................... 1-178

1.62122 Police may not create exigency of potential destruction or removal of evidence permitting warrantless entry into home by knocking on door of home and announcing "police," thus alerting occupants to their presence .......................................................... 1-178

1.62123 Does officer impermissibly create exigent circumstances by knocking on suspect's door? .......................................................... 1-178

1.6213 Consideration of gravity and significance of offense in determining whether exigent circumstances exist .................................................. 1-178

1.62131 Gravity of offense is important factor in determining whether exigent circumstances exist .................................................. 1-178

1.62132 Where relatively minor offense is involved, court will be reluctant to find exigent circumstances justifying entry into home .......................................................... 1-178

1.62133 Less significant the offense, more significant exigent circumstances must be to justify warrantless entry into home .......................................................... 1-178

1.6214 Existence of exigent circumstances determined by considering totality of circumstances .......................................................... 1-179

1.6215 Test of exigent circumstances is objective; subjective motivation or belief of officer is not necessary and its absence is not dispositive .......................................................... 1-179

1.62151 In general ........................................................................................... 1-179

1.62152 But evidence of officer's motivation or belief may be relevant to determination whether exigent circumstance existed .......................................................... 1-179

1.6216 When police officer is confronted with two competing inferences, one that would justify search based on exigent circumstances and another that would not, officer is entitled to rely on reasonable inference justifying search .......................................................... 1-179

1.6217 Consideration of alternatives to entry or search that might have obviated need for immediate entry or search .......................................................... 1-179

1.6218 Underlying crime need not be felony in order for exigent circumstances exception to apply .......................................................... 1-179

1.622 Imminent threat to health and safety; need to render emergency assistance to injured person or to protect person from imminent injury (the emergency doctrine) .......................................................... 1-179

1.6221 In general ........................................................................................... 1-179

1.6222 Mere presence of firearms does not create exigent circumstances ................................................................................. 1-180

1.6223 Threat to safety cannot be created by officers' conduct ................................................................................. 1-180

1.6224 Emergency doctrine not rendered inapplicable because officers have dual motivations (i.e., to render aid or assistance and to investigate crime); doctrine is applicable if need to provide aid or assistance was officer's primary motivator ................................................................................. 1-180
1.6225 Test of whether imminent threat to health and safety justifying search or entry existed is objective; subjective motivation or belief of officer is not necessary and its absence is not dispositive of question whether search or entry was justified ........................................ 1-181

1.62321 In general ........................................................................................... 1-182
1.62322 Arrestee's request for, or availability of, less invasive alternative test (e.g., breath or urine test) does not obviate exigency used to justify warrantless extraction of blood (see sec. 1.63224) .................................................................................. 1-183
1.62323 For purpose of Bohling test for determining when blood may be withdrawn from person suspected of drunk driving, either probable cause to arrest or probable cause to search will substitute for requirement of lawful arrest .................................................................................. 1-183

1.961 Effect of good faith or subjective intent or belief of officer making arrest, search, or seizure ............................................................................................................ 1-268

1.9611 In general ........................................................................................................... 1-268

1.9612 Existence of probable cause not dependent on good faith, or subjective belief or intent, of officer (see sec. 1.34) ................................. 1-269

1.9613 Reliance on incorrect reason to justify intrusion does not invalidate action so long as valid reason exists ............................................ 1-269

1.9614 Reviewing court not bound by subjective assessment or motivation of officer; they are irrelevant to Fourth Amendment analysis ........................................................................................................ 1-269

1.9615 Appellate court is not bound by officer's subjective reasons for search or arrest .......................................................................................... 1-269

1.9616 Evil intentions or ulterior motives irrelevant .................................................. 1-269

1.9617 Action not rendered unconstitutional by officer's subjective intent to engage in additional action that would be unconstitutional ........................................ 1-269

1.9618 Other principles ............................................................................................ 1-269
Fact that officer does not have state of mind hypothecated by reasons which provide legal justification for action does not invalidate action as long as circumstances, viewed objectively, justify that action ........ 1-269

If officer has facts amounting to reasonable suspicion that would justify stop, stop is valid even if officer was not subjectively motivated by desire to investigate this suspicion ................................................................. 1-270

Fact that officer did not subjectively rely on particular factor does not mean appellate court may not consider that factor in determining whether sufficient justification for activity in question existed ...................... 1-270

Officer's subjective belief may be considered by court in determining whether objective test or standard has been met ...................................................................................................... 1-270

When search or seizure not supported by probable cause or reasonable suspicion, officer's subjective motivation is factor that may warrant consideration .................. 1-270

Person stopped for one reason (e.g., driver stopped for traffic violation) may, within reasonable time after stop, be asked questions relating to, or asked to consent to a search whose object is to uncover evidence of, criminal or other activity that was not cause of initial stop (see sec. 1.5258) ......................................................................................... 1-270

Concurrent suspicion of criminal activity does not deprive police officers of right to pursue "render safe" activities ................................................................. 1-270

Temporary detention of motorist upon probable cause to believe he has violated traffic laws permissible, even if reasonable officer would not have stopped the motorist absent some additional law enforcement objective (see sec. 1.5335) ................................................................. 1-270

Continuing detention of person stopped for traffic violation does not become illegal seizure when officer's motivation for continuing stop is not related to the purpose of the original, constitutional stop and there are no articulable facts giving rise to suspicion of some separate illegal activity, so long as the detention is justified by the circumstances, viewed objectively (see sec. 1.5336) ................................................................. 1-271

Actual motivation of officer is generally irrelevant in determining propriety of his or her conduct under Fourth Amendment; officer's subjective reasons for search or arrest are irrelevant to validity of search or arrest ........................................................................................................... 1-271

Subjective intent to make arrest, communicated by words and/or deeds to defendant, is necessary to justify search as incident to arrest when search precedes arrest (see sec. 1.61223) ................................................................. 1-271

1.9691 When lawfulness of official's activity is dependent upon defendant's conviction (e.g., as would be the case with a probation agent's supervisory search of defendant's premises) subsequent reversal of that conviction does not retroactively render activity unlawful ................................................................. 1-273

2.2 Requirement Of Voluntariness ........................................................................................................ 2-35

2.21 General Principles Relating To Requirement Of Voluntariness ................................................................. 2-35

2.211 Existence of requirement ........................................................................................................ 2-35

2.212 Source of requirement ........................................................................................................ 2-35

2.213 Purposes of requirement ........................................................................................................ 2-36

2.22 Test For Determining Voluntariness ................................................................................................. 2-36

2.221 In general .................................................................................................................................... 2-36

2.222 Requires balancing defendant's personal characteristics against police pressures and stratagems .................................................................................................................. 2-37

2.2221 In general .................................................................................................................................... 2-37

2.2222 Under the balancing test, pressures that are not normally coercive may be coercive if defendant's mental or physical condition renders him or her uncommonly susceptible to police pressures .................................................................................................................. 2-38

2.2223 Under balancing test, the more sophisticated and less vulnerable suspect is, the more likely it is that statements were voluntary .................................................................................................................. 2-38

2.223 Must consider totality of circumstances ................................................................................................. 2-38

2.224 Need to show police coercion to trigger balancing test and to support finding of involuntariness .................................................................................................................. 2-39

2.2241 In general .................................................................................................................................... 2-39

2.2242 Police pressures that are not normally coercive may be coercive if defendant's mental or physical condition renders him or her uncommonly susceptible to police pressures (see sec. 2.2222) .................................................................................................................. 2-40
2.2243 Coercive activity by third party, acting on his or her own without police or other governmental involvement, will not render confession inadmissible (see sec. 2.2251) ......................................................... 2-40

2.225 Effect of coercive activity by private party ............................................................ 2-40

2.2251 When private party acting on own, without police or other governmental involvement, confession is admissible ............................................................ 2-40

2.226 Confession obtained by private party ........................................................................ 2-40

2.2261 Effect of coercive activity by private party (see sec. 2.225) ................................ 2-40

2.2262 Coercive activity by police does not render confession inadmissible .................... 2-40

2.2281 In general (see secs. 2.6123 and 2.6133) ............................................................ 2-40

2.2282 State needs to meet burden of proof only with respect to ultimate issue of voluntariness, not with respect to credibility of particular witness's testimony ................................................................................................................. 2-41

2.229 Other matters ........................................................................................................... 2-41

2.2291 Fact that confession is product of nonprosecution agreement later repudiated by state because of defendant's material breach of it does not render confession involuntary ............................................................ 2-41

2.2292 Truth or falsity of statement is irrelevant to question of voluntariness .................. 2-41

2.22921 In general ........................................................................................................ 2-41

2.22922 Decision noting, without apparent disapproval, that in resolving voluntariness issue trial court considered that defendant's statement contained detail of crime that uninvolved person would not have known ............................................................ 2-42

2.2293 Involuntary confessions are suppressed regardless of truthfulness ....................... 2-41

2.2294 Defendant's subjective belief that coercive promise was made cannot be dispositive ................................................................................................................. 2-41

2.2295 Facts about which defendant has no knowledge cannot be coercive ...................... 2-41

2.2296 Refusal to allow writing or recording of statement does not preclude finding of voluntariness ................................................................................................................. 2-41

2.2297 Test for determining admissibility of witness's statement that defendant contends was coerced ................................................................................................................. 2-41

2.22971 Test is same as that applied in determining voluntariness and admissibility of defendant's statement (court of appeals' holding) ............................................................ 2-41

2.22972 Test for determining admissibility of witness's statement requires greater showing before suppression is mandated (supreme court's holding, rejecting court of appeals' holding) (see sec. 22.457) ............................................................ 2-41

2.2298 Voluntariness of juvenile's confession .................................................................... 2-42

2.22983 Need to give juvenile opportunity to consult with parent or interested adult (see sec. 2.545) ................................. 2-42
2.22984 Requirement that statements of juvenile be electronically recorded as prerequisite to admissibility (see sec. 2.667) ..................................................................................... 2-42
2.2299 Other matters ........................................................................................................... 2-42
2.22991 Police pressures that are not normally coercive may be coercive if defendant’s mental or physical condition renders him or her uncommonly susceptible to police pressures (see sec. 2.2222) ........................................... 2-42
2.22992 Coercion need not be physical or brutal in nature; psychological compulsion may render statement involuntary ........................................................................................................... 2-42

  7.11 Nature, Purpose, And Legitimacy Of Plea Bargaining In General ................... 7-1
  7.12 Defense Counsel's Duties In Plea Bargaining ............................................. 7-1
    7.121 Duty to provide effective assistance in general ................................. 7-1
    7.122 Duty to communicate proffered plea bargain to defendant and to inform defendant that decision to reject plea bargain offer is for defendant to make ................................................................. 7-1
    7.1221 In general .......................................................... 7-1
7.1222 To make out claim of ineffective assistance of counsel based on violation of duty to communicate proffered plea bargain to defendant, defendant must allege and show reasonable probability that he would have accepted proffered bargain .................. 7-1

7.1223 If defendant would have rejected offer had it been communicated to him, counsel’s failure to communicate offer is not prejudicial and thus does not constitute ineffective assistance of counsel ................................................................. 7-1

7.123 Duty to advise defendant that agreement not to reveal information to sentencing judge is illegal and will not be honored ........................................ 7-2

7.124 Remedy when defense counsel provides ineffective assistance that causes defendant to reject favorable plea bargain (see sec. 25.285) ........................................ 7-2

7.13 Propriety Of Prosecutorial Inducements To Defendant To Plead Guilty .......................................................... 7-2

7.131 In general .............................................................. 7-2

7.133 Threat of higher or additional charge if defendant refuses to plead guilty .... 7-2

7.14 Construction And Validity Of Plea Agreement ........................................... 7-2

7.141 Construction of agreement .................................................. 7-2

7.1411 In general ................................................................. 7-2

7.1412 Use of contract principles to construe agreement and determine rights of parties to agreement .......................................................... 7-2

7.14121 In general ................................................................. 7-2

7.14122 Principles that are used in contract law to interpret contract (see sec. 47.8858) .......................................................... 7-2

7.1413 Agreement that counts will not be considered for sentencing purposes simply means that prosecutor will make recommendation to that effect ........................................ 7-2

7.1414 Agreement not to make recommendation as to sentence extends only to first sentencing hearing, not to later sentencing hearing held when probation imposed at first sentencing hearing revoked .................................................. 7-3

7.1415 Court will not read into plea agreement provisions that are not there .......................................................... 7-3

7.1416 Agreement that count will be "dismissed outright," if not otherwise clarified in agreement, is ambiguous .................................................. 7-3

7.1417 Construction of ambiguous agreement .................................................. 7-3

7.14171 Determining whether agreement is ambiguous or not .......................... 7-3

7.14172 Construing agreement in manner that safeguards public interests .......... 7-3

7.1423 Agreement to defer entry of judgment of conviction on particular count(s) ................................................................................................................... 7-4

7.14231 Authority of court to defer entry of judgment of conviction (see sec. 12.73961) ........................................................................................................... 7-4

7.14232 Plea agreement to defer entry of judgment of conviction on particular counts is not deferred prosecution agreement and, therefore, need not meet requirements of deferred prosecution agreement (see sec. 12.8132) ...................................................... 7-4

7.1424 Agreement, in burglary case, that if defendant returned substantial portion of property stolen in burglary before sentencing, state would ask court to reopen judgment of conviction and would reduce charge to felony theft ................................................................. 7-4

7.1425 Valid plea agreement requires meeting of minds, evidenced through assent to agreement's terms .................................................................................. 7-4

7.1426 Use of contract principles to assess validity of agreement (see sec. 7.1962) ...................................................................................................................... 7-4

7.143 Effect of invalid plea agreement on guilty plea entered pursuant to it ................................................. 7-4

7.144 Plea agreement may not supplant trial court's exercise of discretion in setting permissible bounds of sentencing hearing (e.g., extent to which it will permit evidence to be introduced) (see sec. 7.1986) ................................................................. 7-4

7.145 Plea agreement must not involve any persons conducting presentence investigation for court .................................................................................................. 7-5

7.15 Prosecutor's Obligation To Comply With Plea Agreement .............................................................................. 7-5

7.151 General principles ........................................................................................................................................... 7-5

7.1511 In general ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-5

7.1512 Use of contract law to determine scope of prosecutor's obligation and remedy for its violation ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-6

7.1513 Law proscribes not only explicit repudiations of plea agreements, but also "end-runs around them" ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-6

7.1514 Prosecutor not obliged to comply with terms of plea agreement after defendant's breach of agreement when express provision of agreement relieves state of obligation to comply with agreement upon defendant's breach ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-6

7.1515 Prosecutor's inadvertent breach of plea agreement (e.g., by recommending sentence in excess of that called for by agreement), which is promptly acknowledged and rectified, does not violate prosecutor's obligation to comply with plea agreement ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-6

7.1516 In determining whether prosecutor has violated obligation to comply with plea agreement, investigating officer is considered agent of state; if investigating officer engages in conduct that would violate plea agreement if engaged in by prosecutor (e.g., if he asks sentencing court to impose sentence in excess of that prosecutor agreed to recommend), plea agreement is violated ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-6

7.1517 Prosecutor obligated to act in "good faith" ................................................................................................. 7-7

7.1518 Prosecutor is not obliged to provide more than is specified in agreement itself; state is held only to those promises actually made ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-7

7.1519 Prosecutor not required to comply with plea agreement that violates public policy ......................................................................................................................................................... 7-7
7.152 Withdrawal from, or modification of, plea bargain by prosecutor after defendant's acceptance ....................................................................................................... 7-7

7.1521 Before entry of plea ........................................................................................................... 7-7

7.15211 In general .......................................................................................................................... 7-7

7.15212 When prosecutor withdraws from plea agreement after defendant's acceptance but before entry of plea, defendant must show detrimental reliance in order to enforce agreement (see sec. 7.1733) ........................................................................................................ 7-7

7.1522 After entry of plea ........................................................................................................... 7-7

7.15221 In general .......................................................................................................................... 7-7

7.15222 When prosecutor withdraws from plea agreement after defendant's acceptance and after defendant's entry of plea, there is no need to show detrimental reliance before defendant is entitled to enforcement of plea agreement (see sec. 7.1734) ........................................................................................................ 7-7

7.15223 Modification by state with agreement of defendant ...................................................... 7-8

7.15224 Change in circumstances between time of making agreement and time of sentencing may justify and excuse prosecutor from fulfilling promises made in plea agreement (see sec. 7.157) ........................................................................................................ 7-8

7.1523 Defendant's waiver of complaint about prosecutor's withdrawal from plea agreement by failure to object ........................................................................................................... 7-8

7.1524 When defense counsel's failure to seek to enforce, or failure to inform defendant of his right to enforce, plea agreement constitutes ineffective assistance of counsel (see sec. 25.3964) ........................................................................................................... 7-8

7.153 Prosecutor's obligations at plea hearing and sentencing .............................................. 7-8

7.1531 In general .......................................................................................................................... 7-8

7.1532 Agreement to remain silent at sentencing is not violated when prosecutor corrects inaccurate information given to court ........................................................................................................... 7-9

7.1533 Prosecutor may comment on thoroughness and completeness of presentence report even though it contains information the prosecutor agreed would not be considered in sentencing ........................................................................................................... 7-9

7.1534 Prosecutor may not render less than neutral recitation of agreed-to sentence recommendation ........................................................................................................... 7-9

7.1535 Fulfilling agreement not to make sentencing recommendation (e.g., recommendation on length of sentence) ........................................................................................................... 7-9

7.15351 In general .......................................................................................................................... 7-9

7.15352 Prosecutor may comment on serious nature of offense and other aggravating factors, thereby suggesting that lengthy sentence should be imposed, without violating agreement ........................................................................................................... 7-9

7.15353 When prosecutor agrees to make no sentence recommendation, prosecutor's contact with probation and parole office to complain about agent's recommendation for probation instead of incarceration, which results in amended PSI recommending incarceration, constitutes material breach of plea agreement (see sec. 7.15387) ........................................................................................................... 7-10
7.15354 Agreement not to make sentencing recommendation is not violated by prosecutor's presentation of statements of victim and/or victim's family asking for imposition of maximum sentence ........................................ 7-10

7.1536 Fulfilling agreement that count would be "dismissed outright" .................................. 7-10
7.15361 In general ............................................................................................................. 7-10
7.15362 May prosecutor rely on facts of count that is "dismissed outright" in arguing for particular sentence on count to which defendant pleads guilty? ................................................................. 7-10

7.1537 Other matters ........................................................................................................... 7-10
7.15371 Prosecutor must use "best efforts" to support plea agreement; prosecutor's "half-hearted" statement of agreed recommendation is no fulfillment of promise .................. 7-10
7.15372 Prosecutor may cite aggravating factors to support sentence at high end of agreed-upon cap ....................................................... 7-10
7.15373 Prosecutor may not make comments that suggest that state is distancing itself from agreed-upon sentence recommendation or that cast doubt on that recommendation .................................................. 7-10
7.15374 Prosecutor is prohibited from accomplishing indirectly what it promised not to do directly and may not covertly convey to court that more severe sentence is warranted than that recommended .................................................. 7-10
7.15375 Prosecutor is not obliged to provide more than is specified in agreement itself; state is held only to those promises actually made (see sec. 7.1518) .................................. 7-11
7.15376 When plea agreement is silent as to whether state will recommend that sentence be concurrent or consecutive, state may recommend consecutive sentence without violating plea agreement ........................................ 7-11
7.15377 Prosecutor not required to comply with plea agreement that violates public policy (see sec. 7.1518) ................................ 7-11
7.15378 Agreement to "stand silent" at sentencing only obligates prosecutor to refrain from offering sentencing recommendation; it does not require prosecutor to withhold relevant factual information from court ........................................ 7-11
7.15379 No need to make sentence recommendation "forcefully or enthusiastically" .................................................. 7-11

7.1538 Other matters (cont'd) ........................................................................................ 7-11
7.15381 Fulfilling agreement to allow parole eligibility on life sentence to be set by statute, rather than by court .................................. 7-11
7.15382 Prosecutor may inform court about negative information about defendant acquired after plea agreement, but may not imply that he or she has changed mind about recommendation called for by agreement ................................................................. 7-11
7.15383 In close case involving claimed breach of plea agreement, should plea agreement be construed in favor of defendant? ................................................................. 7-11
Just because prosecutor at sentencing says there is no breach does not make it so; prosecutor who has implied harsher recommendation than that agreed to may not avoid finding of breach by simply saying he or she is not changing recommendation ................................................................. 7-12
Compliance with agreement that evidence regarding nature of offense will be presented at sentencing ......................... 7-12
When prosecutor has agreed to recommend concurrent sentence, recommendation of consecutive sentence constitutes material and substantial breach of agreement ........................................................................................................ 7-12
When prosecutor agrees to make no sentence recommendation, prosecutor's contact with probation and parole office to complain about agent's recommendation for probation instead of incarceration, which results in amended PSI recommending incarceration, constitutes material breach of plea agreement ........................................................................................................ 7-12
Prosecutor may adduce information unfavorable to defendant to support agreed-upon sentence recommendation ......................................................................................................................... 7-12
In determining whether prosecutor has violated obligation to comply with plea agreement, investigating officer is considered agent of state; if investigating officer engages in conduct that would violate plea agreement if engaged in by prosecutor (e.g., if he asks sentencing court to impose sentence in excess of that prosecutor agreed to recommend), plea agreement is violated (see sec. 7.1516) ......................................................................................... 7-12
Agreement to recommend that sentence be imposed and stayed, but placing no restriction on length of imposed and stayed sentence, not violated by prosecutorial argument listing aggravating factors justifying imposition of maximum sentence ........................................ 7-13
Agreement to recommend particular sentence not violated by prosecutor's presentation of information supporting that sentence that might arguably support greater sentence as well, but prosecutor may not imply that defendant's deserves greater sentence ........................................................................ 7-13
Agreement to make particular recommendation not violated by informing court that victims want to address court ......................................................................................................................... 7-13
When defense counsel's failure to object to breach of plea agreement at sentencing constitutes ineffective assistance of counsel and entitles defendant to relief (see sec. 25.382) ......................................................................................... 7-13
7.15395   Prosecutor's inadvertent breach of plea agreement (e.g., by recommending sentence in excess of that called for by agreement), which is promptly acknowledged and rectified, does not violate prosecutor's obligation to comply with plea agreement (see sec. 7.1515) ................................ 7-13

7.15396   Prosecutor not required to expressly recite sentencing recommendation called for by plea agreement if, based on the entire sentencing proceeding, prosecutor's adherence to sentencing recommendation is clear despite absence of precise words expressly reciting sentencing recommendation ............................................................. 7-13

7.15397   Mentioning uncharged offenses after agreeing to sentence recommendation does not violate "spirit" of agreement ............................................................................................ 7-13

7.15398   Prosecutor is not obliged to say something nice or positive about defendant in order to avoid breaching agreement ..................................................................................................................... 7-14

7.154   Persons who are, and who are not, considered agents of state for purposes of determining whether prosecutor has breached plea agreement ..................................................................................................................... 7-14

7.1541   Presentence preparer is not agent of state, so preparer's actions cannot violate agreement ..................................................................................................................... 7-14

7.1542   Investigating officer is considered agent of state; if investigating officer engages in conduct that would violate plea agreement if engaged in by prosecutor (e.g., if he asks sentencing court to impose sentence in excess of that prosecutor agreed to recommend), plea agreement is violated (see sec. 7.1516) ............................ 7-14

7.155   Defendant's waiver of complaint about prosecutor's violation of plea agreement ..................................................................................................................... 7-14

7.1551   Breach of plea agreement does not entitle defendant to relief unless contemporaneous objection made ........................................................ 7-14

7.15511   In general ..................................................................................................................... 7-14

7.15512   But failure to object may provide basis for finding ineffective assistance of counsel (see sec. 25.382) ........................................................ 7-14

7.15513   Consideration of claimed breach, notwithstanding failure to object ..................................................................................................................... 7-14

7.1552   When objection to violation of plea agreement made unsuccessfully, defendant does not waive objection by attempting to ameliorate effect of violation and telling trial court he is satisfied that steps taken have had desired ameliorative effect ..................................................................................................................... 7-15

7.1553   Defendant waives right to complain about purported or alleged breach of plea agreement after entry of plea when, after purported or alleged breach occurs, he affirmatively declines to seek withdrawal of plea or spurns offer of withdrawal (see sec. 7.1594) ..................................................................................................................... 7-15

7.1554   In federal court, when defendant fails to make contemporaneous objection to violation of plea agreement, "plain error" rule applies and defendant is entitled to relief only if he can satisfy rule's requirements ..................................................................................................................... 7-15
7.156 Agreement not to make recommendation as to sentence extends only to first sentencing hearing, not to later sentencing hearing held when probation imposed at first sentencing hearing revoked .............................................. 7-15

7.157 Effect of defendant's misconduct (e.g., defendant's commission of new crime) between time of execution of plea agreement by defendant's entry of plea pursuant to it and time of sentencing ............................................................... 7-15

7.1571 In general ............................................................................................................. 7-15

7.1572 Does misconduct justify or excuse prosecutor from fulfilling promises made in plea agreement? ............................................................... 7-15

7.15721 Wisconsin appellate courts' answer: No ............................................. 7-15

7.1587 "Close call," or "close case," rule has no application to appellate review whether breach warranting relief has occurred ............................................................... 7-17

7.1588 Credibility determinations made by circuit court are accepted by appellate court ............................................................... 7-17

7.15881 In general ............................................................................................. 7-17

7.1592 Prosecutor does not violate agreement by acquiescing in modification to it proposed by defense counsel ............................................................... 7-18

7.1593 Prosecutor does not breach agreement by failing to comply with its terms after defendant's breach of agreement when express provision of agreement relieves state of obligation to comply with agreement upon defendant's breach ............................................................... 7-18

7.1597 To prevail on claim of breach of agreement, defendant cannot rely on his "reasonable expectations"; rather, he must show violation of specific prosecutorial promise that induced his plea (see sec. 7.165) ...................................................................................................... 7-18

7.1598 Transfer of convicted defendant to out-of-state prison facility does not breach plea agreement absent specific prosecutorial promise that defendant would serve sentence in Wisconsin .......................... 7-18

7.1599 Other matters ....................................................................................................... 7-18

7.15991 Prosecutor is excused from complying with terms of agreement, even after defendant's entry of plea pursuant to it, when, at time of entry of plea or thereafter, prosecutor proposes, and defendant either expressly or tacitly accepts, modification of plea agreement (see sec. 7.15223) .............................................................. 7-18

7.15992 Prosecutor's obligation to comply with promise not to reinstate charge with respect to which trial court allows plea withdrawal, when conviction on another charge is permitted to stand, all charges having been disposed of by guilty pleas pursuant to plea agreement (see sec. 22.8324) ................................................................................................. 7-19

8.1454 Juror's assertion that he or she thinks he would be able to put aside otherwise disqualifying view and decide case solely on evidence presented and instructions given ........................................ 8-13
8.1455 Juror's assertion that he or she "would certainly try" and "probably" could set aside his opinion that a criminally accused defendant who was innocent would take stand and testify in his defense ................................................................. 8-14
8.1456 Prospective juror need not unambiguously state his or her ability to set aside bias .............................................................................. 8-14
8.1457 Juror need not give "unequivocal assurances" of his or her impartiality ................................................................................................. 8-14

8.146 Waiver of claim that juror should have been disqualified for cause ................................................................. 8-14
8.1461 By failure to move to strike juror during voir dire ................................................................................................................................. 8-14
8.1462 By failure to raise ground for striking juror ................................................................................................................................. 8-14
8.1463 Party does not waive claim that juror should have been disqualified for cause by failing to cite specific decision that supports that claim ................................................................................................................................. 8-14
8.1464 Defendant does not waive claim that juror was disqualified to serve by failure to use peremptory strike to remove juror (see sec. 8.173) ................................................................................................................................. 8-14
8.1465 Even when lack of objection to disqualifying juror for cause does not waive right to complain about disqualification of juror, lack of objection may be considered in determining whether grounds for disqualification existed (see sec. 8.1474) ................................................................................................................................. 8-14

8.147 Appellate review of trial court's disposition of motion to disqualify prospective juror for cause ................................................................................................................................. 8-14
8.1471 Standards of appellate review in general ........................................................ 8-14
8.1472 Because trial court makes judgment based in part on demeanor of juror, appellate court owes deference to trial court's decision ................ 8-15
8.1473 Deferential standard of review is applicable not only to trial court's determination that juror can set aside expressed prejudice or other potentially disqualifying view, but also to whether juror expressed prejudice or other potentially disqualifying view in the first instance ................................................................. 8-15
8.1474 Even when lack of objection to disqualifying juror for cause does not waive right to complain about disqualification of juror, lack of objection may be considered in determining whether grounds for disqualification existed ................................................................. 8-15
8.148 Other matters ........................................................................................................... 8-15
8.1481 Failure of defense counsel to move to strike prospective juror for cause not prejudicial if juror removed from jury by use of peremptory challenge ................................................................. 8-15
8.1482 Is failure of trial court to strike juror for cause prejudicial even if objectionable juror removed from jury by use of peremptory challenge? (see sec. 8.158) ................................................................. 8-15
8.1483 Defendant does not waive claim that juror was disqualified to serve by failure to use peremptory strike to remove juror ......................... 8-15
8.1484 When counsel's failure to move to strike juror for cause constitutes ineffective assistance of counsel (see sec. 25.335) ......................... 8-15
8.1485 Criminal convictions do not automatically disqualify prospective jurors (see sec. 8.1432) ................................................................. 8-15
8.1486 When juror's "manifest bias" discovered during trial and defendant moves for mistrial because there was no alternate juror, defendant does not waive complaint about juror or about court's denial of mistrial by agreeing to trial by jury of eleven (see sec. 8.172) ................................................................. 8-16
8.1487 Decision whether to move to strike juror for cause is committed to counsel; there is no requirement that the defendant be personally involved in decision ................................................................. 8-16
8.149 Other matters (cont'd) ........................................................................................... 8-16
8.1491 Failure of trial court to strike juror for cause does not deny defendant right to impartial jury if juror removed from jury by use of peremptory challenge (see sec. 26.235) ................................................................. 8-16
8.1492 Does trial court's erroneous refusal to strike juror for cause, which requires defendant to use peremptory strike to exclude juror, deny defendant's rights with respect to peremptory challenges? (see sec. 8.158) ................................................................. 8-16
8.1493 Effect of trial court's erroneous grant of state's motion to strike prospective juror for cause ................................................................. 8-16
8.14931 Trial court's erroneous grant of state's motion to strike a prospective juror for cause does not effectively grant state an additional peremptory challenge and, therefore, does not deprive defendant of statutorily created right mandating equal number of peremptory challenges to both sides; error is harmless (current law, mandated by supreme court) (see sec. 8.1821) ................................................................. 8-16
8.14932 Trial court's erroneous grant of state's motion to strike a prospective juror for cause deprives defendant of statutorily created right mandating equal number of peremptory challenges to both sides by effectively granting the state an additional peremptory challenge (court of appeals' holding, rejected by supreme court) (see sec. 8.1822) ................................................................. 8-16

8.1494 Effect of defendant's theory of defense (e.g., he participated in crime but was coerced into doing so) on determination whether prospective juror's opinion regarding defendant's guilt requires trial court to strike jurors for cause ..................................................................... 8-16

8.1495 Burden of establishing juror's bias is on party moving to remove juror for cause ........................................................................................................ 8-17

8.1496 When, in response to series of questions, Juror A reveals disqualifying prejudice, and Juror B answers "probably" to a question whether he would answer an unspecified question the same way as Juror A did, Juror B's answer does not establish disqualifying prejudice .............................................................................. 8-17

8.1552 When withholding, or barring revelation of, information that would identify jurors denies defendant's right to peremptory strikes ........................................................................... 8-18

8.1553 Is defendant's right to full complement of peremptory strikes denied when defendant required to utilize peremptory strike to remove juror that should have been stuck by trial court for cause (see sec. 8.158) .............................................................................................. 8-18

8.1554 Peremptory strikes not required by constitution ................................................................. 8-18

8.1555 Is denial of right subject to harmless-error analysis .......................................................... 8-18

8.1556 Provided that all jurors seated in criminal case are qualified and unbiased, due process does not require automatic reversal of conviction because of trial court's good-faith error in denying defendant's peremptory challenge to juror ..................................................... 8-18

8.156 Prosecutor not required to justify strikes that remove all members of particular group (other than racial, sexual, or other group requiring heightened scrutiny) from jury ................................................................................................................ 8-18

8.159 Other matters ........................................................................................................................................... 8-19

8.1591 Wisconsin Supreme Court's Ramos holding that trial court's erroneous refusal to strike juror for cause, which requires defendant to use peremptory strike to exclude juror, denies defendant's rights with respect to peremptory challenges ........................................................................................................................... 8-19

8.15911 In general ........................................................................................................................................... 8-19

8.15912 Denial of rights with respect to peremptory challenges occurs even if both parties received extra peremptory strike to which they were not entitled ................................................................................... 8-19

8.1592 Wisconsin Supreme Court's Lindell holding (overruling Ramos) that trial court's erroneous refusal to strike juror for cause, which requires defendant to use peremptory strike to exclude juror, does not deny defendant's rights with respect to peremptory challenges and does not constitute reversible error ........................................................................................................................................... 8-20

8.1593 Party does not waive challenge to juror by failing to exercise peremptory strike to remove juror (see sec. 8.1483) ........................................................................................................................................................................................................ 8-20

8.1594 Interference with peremptory strikes through juror's withholding of information on voir dire ........................................................................................................................................................................................................ 8-20

8.1595 Importance of maintaining equal number of peremptory strikes in two-party cases ........................................................................................................................................................................................................ 8-20

8.1596 Party may not correct mistaken exercise of peremptory challenge (i.e., may not change peremptory challenge from one prospective juror to another prospective juror) after parties have accepted jury ........................................................................................................... 8-20
8.1597 No peremptory strikes may be exercised after both parties have accepted jury .......................................................... 8-20
8.1598 Assuming trial court had discretion to permit defendant to correct mistaken exercise of peremptory strike after parties have approved jury, erroneous exercise of discretion in denying defendant right to correct erroneous exercise of peremptory strike would be subject to harmless error analysis ........................................ 8-21
8.1599 If defendant given more peremptory challenges than he is entitled to, he cannot complain that he was forced to expend peremptory challenge on juror who should have been stricken for cause ............................................................................................................... 8-21
8.16 Requirement that prosecutor and defendant justify exercise of peremptory strikes against members of particular race or other cognizable group .................................................. 8-21
8.161 Requirement in general .................................................................................................................................................. 8-21

8.1651 In general .................................................................................................................................................. 8-23
8.1652 First step: Need for defendant to make prima facie showing that strikes exercised with discriminatory intent ........................................ 8-23
8.16521 In general .................................................................................................................................................. 8-23
8.16522 No need to consider whether defendant fulfilled obligation under first step if prosecutor has offered neutral explanation and court has ruled on question of purposeful discrimination .......................................................... 8-23
8.16523 At this step in analysis, defendant need not show that it is more likely than not that state's peremptory challenges, if unexplained, were based on impermissible group bias; it is sufficient if evidence allows judge to draw inference that discrimination has occurred .................................................................................................................................................. 8-23
8.1653 Second step: State's obligation to come forward with non-discriminatory reason for using peremptory challenge ........................................ 8-23
8.16531 In general .................................................................................................................................................. 8-24
8.16532 Prosecutor must make more than credible, good faith statement that strikes were based on legitimate factors; he or she must demonstrate how there is a nexus between legitimate factors and juror who was struck ................... 8-24

8.1654 Third step: Court’s duty to determine whether purposeful discrimination established ................................................................. 8-24
8.16541 In general ....................................................................................... 8-24
8.16542 Fact that state’s proffered reason for striking black panelist applies just as well to otherwise-similar nonblack who is permitted to serve is evidence tending to prove purposeful discrimination ................................................. 8-24

8.1655 "Dual motivation test" rejected ................................................................. 8-24

8.166 Factors that have been recognized or rejected as non-discriminatory (i.e. neutral) reasons for striking juror ..................................................................................................................... 8-24
8.1661 Geographical proximity (i.e., proximity of juror’s residence) to witness or evidence in case ................................................................. 8-24

8.16694 Juror’s youth ...................................................................................... 8-25
8.16695 Juror’s lack of ties to community ...................................................... 8-25
8.16696 Juror’s nervousness ............................................................................ 8-25
8.16697 Juror’s obligations (e.g., work, school, etc.) that prosecutor asserts have led prosecutor to believe juror will want to end trial quickly and therefore favor conviction of lesser offense .............................................................................. 8-25

8.167 Waiver of objection to prosecutor’s exercise of strikes against member of particular race or other cognizable group ................................................. 8-25
8.1671 In general ........................................................................................... 8-25
8.1672 To be timely, objection must be made after composition of jury is made known, but before jury is sworn ...................................................... 8-25

8.168 Appellate review of trial court's findings and ruling ................................................. 8-25
8.1681 In general ........................................................................................... 8-25
8.1682 "Clearly erroneous" standard of appellate review may apply even when Batson inquiry is conducted after voir dire in response to postconviction motion based on alleged ineffective assistance of counsel for failing to raise Batson objection ................................................. 8-26
8.1683 "Clearly erroneous" standard of appellate review applies even when there has been no questioning on voir dire of struck juror regarding matters that caused prosecutor to strike juror ........................................ 8-26
8.1684 Need for transcript of voir dire ......................................................................... 8-26
8.1685 Propriety of considering findings made by judge in response to post-conviction motion .............................................................................................................. 8-26

8.1687 When federal court, in federal habeas proceeding, is dealing with issue of discriminatory use of peremptory strikes in state prosecution .............................................................................................................. 8-26
8.169 Other matters ......................................................................................................... 8-26
8.1691 Retroactivity of requirement ............................................................................. 8-26
8.1692 Striking jurors based on criterion that might result in disproportionate removal of prospective jurors of particular race or other cognizable group not prohibited; proof of discriminatory intent or purpose is required .............................................................................................................. 8-27
8.1693 Prosecutor may not use peremptory strike to remove person of cognizable class because prosecutor believes that a person of that class may be biased against the defendant ........................................ 8-27
8.1694 Requirement applies even when strikes exercised against members of racial or other cognizable group of which defendant is not a member (see sec. 8.163) .............................................................................................................. 8-27
8.1695 No need for personal, individualized questioning of struck juror regarding matters that caused prosecutor to strike him or her ........................................ 8-27
8.1696 When failure to make Batson objection constitutes ineffective assistance of counsel (see sec. 25.332) .............................................................................................................. 8-27
8.1697 Prosecutor does not need to strike all jurors of particular race or other cognizable group to violate this requirement; constitution prohibits striking even single prospective juror for discriminatory purpose .............................................................................................................. 8-27
8.1698 When trial court denies defendant's peremptory challenge because it erroneously believes that defendant has exercised challenge in discriminatory manner and has not adequately justified challenge, due process does not require automatic reversal of conviction, provided that all jurors seated are qualified and unbiased .............................................................................................................. 8-27
8.17 Waiver of objection to juror or to errors or other defects in jury selection process ........................................ 8-27
8.171 In general ...................................................................................................................... 8-27
8.172 When juror's "manifest bias" discovered during trial and defendant moves for mistrial because there was no alternate juror, defendant does not waive complaint about juror or about court's denial of mistrial by agreeing to trial by jury of eleven (see sec. 8.172) .............................................................................................................. 8-27
8.173 Party does not waive objection to potential juror by failure to use peremptory strike to remove juror .............................................................................................................. 8-28

  8.511 In general ................................................................................................................................... 8-54
  8.512 Defense requested instruction that is supported by evidence should not be denied because it is inconsistent with defendant's testimony ................................. 8-57
  8.513 In determining whether defense-requested instruction should be given, court must view the evidence in the most favorable light it will reasonably admit from the standpoint of the accused ................................................................. 8-57
  8.514 Procedure for instructions in criminal cases is same as that provided in civil actions ................................................................................................................................................. 8-57
  8.515 When case submitted on stipulation of facts, appellate court does not apply general rule that gives trial court discretion to determine what instructions the evidence reasonably requires ........................................................................ 8-57
  8.516 Jury should not be required to guess at meaning of technical words ........................................................................................................................................................................ 8-57
  8.517 If instructions given adequately cover law, appellate court will not find error in failing to give other instructions even though, if given, they, too, would not be erroneous ........................................................................................................................................... 8-57

  8.5192 Arguments of counsel cannot substitute for instruction by court ...................................................... 8-58
  8.5193 Defense requested instruction should be given if there is any foundation in evidence for it, even though evidence supporting it may be weak, insufficient, inconsistent, or of doubtful credibility ...................................................... 8-58
  8.5194 Rules regarding jury instructions in civil actions apply to criminal actions ................................................................................................................................................................. 8-58

9.2187 Principles governing trial court's exercise of sentencing discretion have not changed with advent of truth-in-sentencing; greater specification of reasons for sentence imposed not required, but there is greater need to articulate on record reasons for particular sentence imposed, and appellate courts must more closely scrutinize record to ensure that discretion was exercised and that basis of that exercise of discretion is set forth (see sec. 9.2196) .................................................. 9-30

9.2393 When same judge presides at sentencing and postconviction hearing, and determines that sentence would be the same with corrected information, has defendant received sufficient resentencing remedy for reliance on incorrect information at sentencing? ........................................................................................................... 9-37
9.2394 When defendant, in postconviction motion attacking sentence, contends that presentence report contained inaccurate information and submits confidential, sealed juvenile records to support that contention, trial court must review those records in camera before denying motion ................................................................. 9-37

    9.24782 But court may properly consider pretrial confinement,

9.26 Challenges To Exercise Of Sentencing Discretion Based On Claim That Court Placed Too Much Or Too Little Weight On Particular Factor ......................................................................................... 9-53
  9.261 General principle: weight to attach to particular factor is within wide discretion of trial court ................................................................. 9-53

9.27 Must Not Be Excessive (Unduly Harsh Or Unconscionable) ......................... 9-54
  9.271 General principles .................................................................................... 9-54
  9.272 Disparity between harsh sentence imposed on defendant and more lenient sentence imposed on accomplice does not render defendant's sentence unduly harsh or unconscionable ................................................................. 9-55
  9.273 Defendant who has agreed to sentence recommended by presentence report, which is then imposed by trial court, is judicially estopped from later challenging sentence as excessive (see sec. 9.936) ................................................................. 9-55
  9.274 Effect of fact that sentence is well within statutory maximum .................. 9-56
    9.2741 Sentence well within maximum for offense is unlikely to be unduly harsh or unconscionable ................................................................. 9-56
    9.2742 Sentence well within maximum for offense is presumptively not unduly harsh or unconscionable ................................................................. 9-56
    9.2743 Generally, sentences within maximum for offense are not disproportionate to offense committed and are not unduly harsh or unconscionable ................................................................. 9-56
9.275 Where there are two victims, making sentences consecutive does not shock public sentiment or make sentences unduly harsh or unconscionable (see sec. 9.4224) .......................................................... 9-56

9.276 Sentence cannot be rendered excessive (i.e., unduly harsh or unconscionable), and thus an abuse of discretion, as result of events that occur after sentencing; in deciding whether sentence is unduly harsh, circuit court's inquiry is confined to whether it erroneously exercised its sentencing discretion based on information it had at time of sentencing ............... 9-56

9.277 Particular circumstances under which sentence has, or has not, been found to be excessive (unduly harsh or unconscionable) ........................................... 9-56

9.2771 Imposition of 18-year sentence with 12 years of initial confinement on defendant, who was 19 years old at time of crime, for sexual assault of fifteen-year-old victim based on allegedly consensual sexual intercourse between defendant and victim .......................................................................................................................... 9-56

9.279 Other matters ........................................................................................................................................ 9-57

9.2791 Determining whether sentence is unduly harsh or unconscionable when multiple-count sentences imposed .......................................................... 9-57

9.2792 Sentence of life imprisonment without possibility of parole on young juvenile is not necessarily excessive, i.e., unduly harsh or unconscionable .......................................................... 9-57

9.2793 Court need not determine that young juvenile will remain incorrigible for rest of his or her life, or that he or she is forever irredeemable, before it may impose sentence of life imprisonment without possibility of parole .......................................................... 9-57

9.28 Other Matters ........................................................................................................................................ 9-57

9.284 Exercise of discretion to impose consecutive sentences (see sec. 9.422) .......................................................... 9-57

9.285 Propriety of trial court preparing sentencing note sheet and arriving at "tentative" sentence prior to sentencing hearing .......................................................... 9-57

9.286 Exercise of sentencing discretion cannot be based on preconceived, inflexible policy with respect to particular class of crimes (see sec. 9.212) .......................................................... 9-57

9.2889 Defendant who has agreed to sentence recommended by presentence report, which is then imposed by trial court, is judicially estopped from later challenging sentence as excessive (see sec. 9.936) ........................................................................................................ 9-58

9.3 Credit For Pretrial And Other Confinement ................................................................. 9-60
9.31 General Principles ...................................................................................................... 9-60
9.311 When credit required in general .......................................................................... 9-60
9.3111 In general .............................................................................................................  9-60
9.3112 When person convicted in Wisconsin is made available to another jurisdiction (Wis. Stat. § 973.15(5)) ............................................................... 9-60
9.31121 In general ............................................................................................. 9-60
9.31122 When convicted person is subject to service of Wisconsin sentence in prison (e.g., because person's parole or probation has been revoked) at time he is made available to other jurisdiction ........................................................................... 9-61
9.31123 When convicted person is not subject to service of Wisconsin sentence in prison (e.g., because he is on parole or probation) at time he is made available to another jurisdiction .................................................................................... 9-61
9.3113 When order revoking probation grants credit for period of time until defendant's receipt at institution ........................................................................ 9-61 9.3114 Requirement that time for which credit is being sought have been spent "in custody" ................................................................................................. 9-61
9.31141 In general ............................................................................................................. 9-61
9.31142 Meaning of "custody" for purposes of sentence credit statute; determining what constitutes "custody" for which defendant entitled to credit (see sec. 9.313) ........................................... 9-61
9.3115 Requirement that time in custody for which credit is sought have been "in connection with the course of conduct or which sentence was imposed" ................................................................. 9-61

9.31151 In general ........................................................................................................... 9-61

9.31152 Meaning of phrase custody "in connection with the course of conduct or which sentence was imposed" (see sec. 9.3142) ........................................................................ 9-61

9.31153 Requirement applies to each sentence individually, even when concurrent sentences are imposed at same time (see sec. 9.382) ........................................................................ 9-61

9.31154 When defendant released on personal recognizance bond on particular charge, any subsequent custody is not custody "in connection with the course of conduct for which sentence was imposed" with respect to that charge (see sec. 9.316) ........................................................................ 9-61

9.312 Method and manner of providing credit in general .................................................... 9-61

9.3121 In general ............................................................................................................. 9-61

9.3122 Method of determining proper sentence credit in post-probation-revocation sentencing: DOC makes sentence credit recommendation, and court considers recommendation and makes finding whether and how much sentence credit should be given ..................................................................................................................... 9-62

9.3123 When sentence is imposed and consecutive sentence is also imposed but stayed, credit must be awarded on first sentence; applying credit to stayed sentence could possibly deny defendant credit to which he is entitled ........................................................................ 9-62

9.3124 In awarding credit, length of sentence should be determined first, followed by determination of credit to which defendant entitled; initial determination of credit to which defendant is entitled, followed by imposition of sentence consisting of term of years plus days of credit to which defendant entitled, is abuse of discretion ..................................................................................................................... 9-62

9.31241 In general ........................................................................................................... 9-62

9.31242 But court may properly consider pretrial confinement, to which defendant will be entitled to credit, in determining length of sentence so that defendant will spend sufficient time in prison to complete needed treatment program ........................................................................ 9-62

9.313 Meaning of "custody" for purposes of sentence credit statute; determining what constitutes "custody" for which defendant entitled to credit ..................................................................................................................... 9-62

9.3131 Definition of "custody" in escape statute used to determine whether defendant entitled to credit under sentence credit statute (pre-Magnuson rule, broadened by Magnuson decision) ........................................ 9-62

9.3132 Offender's status constitutes custody for sentence credit purposes when offender is subject to escape charge for leaving that status (Magnuson rule) ...................................................................................... 9-62

9.3133 Imprisonment or confinement, other than as part of criminal proceeding or under criminal sentence, which may constitute "custody" for purposes of credit ...................................................................................... 9-63
9.31331 Confinement in secure correctional facility for juveniles 9-63
9.314 Meaning of phrases in sentence credit statute 9-63
9.3141 Meaning of phrase "course of conduct" 9-63
9.3142 Meaning of phrase custody "in connection with course of conduct for which sentence was imposed" 9-63
9.31421 In general 9-63
9.31422 Connection must be factual connection; procedural or other tangential connection will not suffice 9-63
9.31423 Custody is not "in connection with course of conduct for which sentence was imposed" if defendant would have been subjected to custody in question even if he had not engaged in that course of conduct 9-63
9.31424 "In connection with" requirement applies to each sentence individually, even when concurrent sentences are imposed at same time (see sec. 9.382) 9-63
9.31425 Sentencing on unrelated charge severs connection of custody to pending charge, so no credit on sentence imposed for pending charge is required (see sec. 9.321) 9-63
9.3143 Meaning of phrase "confinement related to an offense for which the offender is ultimately sentenced" 9-63
9.31431 Includes confinement related to "read-in" offense (see sec. 9.3291) 9-63
9.3144 Meaning of phrase "custody of the convicted offender which is in whole or in part the result of a probation, extended supervision or parole hold . . . placed on the person for the same course of conduct as that resulting in the new conviction" 9-64
9.315 Imprisonment or confinement, other than sentence, to which defendant entitled to have credit applied 9-64
9.3151 Defendant not entitled to have credit applied to incarceration or confinement imposed as condition of probation 9-64
9.316 When defendant released on personal recognizance bond on particular charge, any subsequent custody is not custody "in connection with the course of conduct for which sentence was imposed" with respect to that charge 9-64
9.317 Other principles 9-64
9.3171 Burden of proof on demonstrating both custody and its "connection with the course of conduct for which sentence was imposed" 9-64
9.3172 Fact that defendant is serving sentence on crime A does not always sever time in custody owing to crime B for purposes of awarding sentence credit on sentence for crime B 9-64
9.32 Credit For Particular Periods 9-64
9.321 Time spent serving sentence on unrelated charge, but also spent awaiting trial on pending charge for which sentence is ultimately imposed: sentencing on unrelated charge severs connection of custody to pending charge, so no credit on sentence imposed for pending charge is required 9-64

9.3221 In general 9-65

9.3261 In general ............................................................................................. 9-66

9.3262 No need for credit when sentence imposed upon revocation of probation on old offense has been fully served and credit already awarded on that sentence ............................................................................................. 9-66

9.327 Time spent on probation or in confinement as condition of probation ............................................................................................. 9-66

9.3271 Time spent on probation ............................................................................................. 9-66

9.374 Use of special materials appended to Wisconsin pattern jury instructions in deciding sentence credit questions ..................................................................................................................................... 9-74
9.375 When sentence is imposed and consecutive sentence is also imposed but stayed, credit must be awarded on first sentence; applying credit to stayed sentence could possibly deny defendant credit to which he is entitled (see sec. 9.3123) ..................................................................................................................................... 9-74
9.376 In awarding credit, length of sentence should be determined first, followed by determination of credit to which defendant entitled; initial determination of credit to which defendant is entitled, followed by imposition of sentence consisting of term of years plus days of credit to which defendant entitled, is abuse of discretion (see sec. 9.3124) ..................................................................................................................................... 9-74

9.8321 In general .................................................................................................................................. 9-174
9.8322 When modifying sentence to correct error in original sentence, the court must base the sentence on the circumstances as they existed when the original sentence was imposed (former rule) (see sec. 9.861) ........................................................................................................ 9-175
9.8323 When resentencing a defendant, whether resentencing necessitated by setting aside or reversal of original conviction and subsequent reconviction or by setting aside or reversal of original sentence, trial court should consider all relevant information about defendant, including information about events and circumstances either that the sentencing court was unaware of at the initial sentencing or that occurred after the initial sentencing (see sec. 9.862) ........................................................................................................ 9-175
9.8324 When portion of sentence is invalid (e.g., enhanced penalty based on repeater status that was not proven), valid portion of sentence (e.g., its concurrent nature) may be modified to effectuate premise and goal of sentence as originally imposed (see sec. 9.4959) ........................................................................................................ 9-175

9.873 When related sentence is invalid (e.g., because it was imposed on count that was multiplicitous) and is, therefore, vacated, valid sentence may be modified because valid sentence may have taken into account invalid sentence; sentence may be modified to implement original dispositional scheme (see sec. 9.8872) .................................................................................................................... 9-176

9.874 When related sentence is invalid (e.g., because it was imposed on count that was multiplicitous) and is, therefore, vacated, valid sentence may be modified because valid sentence may have taken into account invalid sentence; sentence may be modified to implement original dispositional scheme (see sec. 9.9415) .................................................................................................................... 9-177

10.1221 In general .......................................................................................................... 10-1 10.1222 First requirement for granting new trial based on newly discovered evidence: evidence must have come to moving party's knowledge after trial .............................................................. 10-2 discovered evidence: moving party must not have been probability that a different result would obtain on retrial, trial court may make, and rely on, assessment that newly discovered evidence is not credible ....................................................................................... 10-3

10.12264 This requirement not governed by any standard of proof; defendant not required to establish it by clear and convincing evidence ................................................ 10-3

10.12265 Does this requirement impose "outcome determinative" standard? ........................................................ 10-3

10.12266 After determining that both parties presented credible evidence, it is not trial court's role to weigh evidence in determining whether there is reasonable probability of different result ................................ 10-3 outcome would be different—not governed by any standard of proof; defendant not required to establish it by clear and convincing evidence (see

      10.315 As general rule, court's inherent power to modify sentence is limited to two discretion; (2) where new factor exists ................................................................. 10-23

      10.324 When original judgment of conviction placed defendant on probation, but probation was revoked and new judgment of 10.325 Two avenues for seeking modification of sentence: (1) Wis. Stat. § 973.19 modification motion and (2) motion based on new factor, which invokes inherent power of court ................................................................. 10-24

10.33 Grounds For Modification: General Principles ........................................................ 10-24

10.331 In general ............................................................................................................. 10-24

10.332 Court should not modify sentence upon mere reflection alone; new factor, or conclusion that original sentence was excessive and thus erroneous exercise of discretion, required .............................................................................. 10-25

10.34 Grounds For Modification: New Factor ................................................................. 10-25

10.341 General principles ..................................................................................................... 10-25

10.3411 In general ................................................................................................... 10-25

10.3412 To gain sentence modification based on new factor, defendant must establish (1) that new factor exists and (2) that new factor justifies modification .................................................................................................................. 10-25

10.3413 Legitimacy of new factor as ground for modification ........................................... 10-26

10.3414 Case law regarding sentence modification based on new factor remains valid after enactment of truth-in-sentencing law .................................................................................................................. 10-26

10.3416 Trial court may determine that alleged new factor does not justify modification, and dispose of motion on that basis, without determining whether alleged new factor actually constitutes new factor .............................................................................. 10-26

10.3417 If court determines that alleged ground for modification is not new factor, analysis may end at that point .................................................................................................................. 10-26

10.3421 In general ...................................................................................................... 10-26

10.3422 Erroneous or inaccurate information used at sentencing may constitute new factor if it was highly relevant to sentence imposed and was relied upon by trial court .............................................................................. 10-28

10.3423 Must have been overlooked by all parties; if defendant was aware of factor, it is not new factor .................................................................................................................. 10-28

Determining whether new factor warrants sentence modification .......... 10-34

In general ................................................................................................... 10-34

Whether new factor warrants sentence modification rests in trial court's discretion ............................................................................... 10-34

If court concludes that ground for modification is not "new factor," it need not consider whether ground warrants sentence modification ............................................................................... 10-34

Burden and standard of proof regarding existence of new factor .......... 10-35

Appellate review of question whether new factor justifying modification exists .................................................................................................... 10-35

In general ................................................................................................... 10-35

Whether new factor exists is question of law that appellate court reviews de novo .............................................................................. 10-35

Whether new factor warrants modification of sentence rests within trial court's discretion, which appellate court will not disturb unless it was erroneously exercised ......................................... 10-36

Other matters .......................................................................................................... 10-36

New factor need not be shown in order to justify modification of sentence that has been imposed in violation of Wisconsin law (see sec. 10.333) ........................................................................ 10-36

Fact that defendant is seeking modification of parole eligibility date set pursuant to Wis. Stat. § 973.014 does not make prison adjustment a new factor justifying modification of sentence ........................................................................................................ 10-36

various forms of physical, sexual, and psychological abuse .......... 10-37

Failure of prison to provide needed medical treatment .......... 10-37

Fact that defendant was sexually assaulted while in prison .......... 10-37

Conditions of confinement do not provide basis for sentence
modification, but for change in conditions of confinement .......... 10-37

Conditions of confinement cannot render sentence imposed excessive (i.e., unduly harsh or unconscionable) and thus erroneous exercise of discretion ........................................................................ 10-37

Other grounds .......................................................................................................... 10-37

Prosecutor's failure to file "substantial assistance" motion .......... 10-37

10.382 Effect of failure of trial court to timely consider motion to modify sentence ........................................................................................................................................ 10-38
10.383 Necessity of motion as prerequisite to appellate challenge to sentence (see sec. 9.92) ........................................................................................................................................ 10-38
10.384 When modifying sentence because original sentence was erroneous, must the court base the new sentence on the circumstances as they existed when the original sentence was imposed or may it consider circumstances arising after original sentence imposed? 10.385 Consequences of seeking modification of sentence under Wis. Stat. § 973.19(1)(a) ........................................................................................................................................ 10-38

10.39 Other And Related Matters (cont'd) ........................................................................................................................................ 10-39
10.391 Law regarding sentence modification based on new factor and other grounds remains valid after enactment of truth-in-sentencing law; defendant is not precluded from filing motion for sentence modification under existing law in addition to § 973.195 petition for sentence adjustment under truth-in-sentencing law ........................................................................................................................................ 10-39

10.421 Test for plea withdrawal before sentencing: fair and just reason, and no substantial prejudice to state ................................................................................................................................. 10-39

10.42121 In general ....................................................................................................................................................... 10-40
10.42122 Applicability of this standard when defendant seeks plea withdrawal during pendency of motion for sentence modification ................................................................. 10-41
10.42123 Applicability of this standard when defendant initially sentenced but, prior to motion to withdraw plea, obtains vacation of sentence ................................................................. 10-41
10.42124 Applicability of this standard when defendant seeks to withdraw plea before sentencing, but plea withdrawal is first considered as part of postconviction motion: in general ................................................................. 10-41
10.42125 Applicability of this standard when defendant seeks to withdraw plea before sentencing, but plea withdrawal is first considered as part of postconviction motion: When defendant seeks plea withdrawal before sentencing, but matter is considered as part of postconviction hearing, defendant cannot have grounds considered under this standard that were not raised as part of presentencing request for plea withdrawal ................................................................................................................................. 10-41
10.42126 Applicability of this standard when defendant seeks withdrawal of plea that resulted in implementation of diversion (i.e., deferred prosecution) agreement rather than conviction and sentencing ................................................................................................................................. 10-41
10.42127 Applicability of this standard when probation imposed .......................................................................................... 10-41
10.42128 For purposes of the application of this standard, "sentencing" encompasses the initial disposition of case after plea, whether or not disposition involves actual imposition of "sentence," e.g., "sentencing" encompasses imposition of probation ................................................................................................................................. 10-41
10.4219 In federal court, this standard is applicable after district court accepts plea even though district court has deferred decision on whether to accept plea agreement (see sec. 10.4271) ................................. 10-42

10.4213 When substantial prejudicial to state warrants denial of plea withdrawal ................................................................................................. 10-42
10.42131 In general ...................................................................................... 10-42
10.42132 When state claims it is prejudiced by inability to find witness (e.g., victim), court must consider strength of state's case without witness; if state's case remains strong, state cannot show sufficient prejudice to warrant denial of motion ........................................ 10-42 10.42133 When state fails to assert prejudice, court may assume there would be no prejudice to state in allowing plea withdrawal ................................................................. 10-42

10.4214 When newly discovered evidence will satisfy this standard for withdrawal (see sec. 10.4342) ..................................................... 10-42 10.4215 When victim's or other witness's recantation will satisfy this standard for withdrawal (see sec. 10.43432) ..................................... 10-42 10.4216 State bears burden to show substantial prejudice so as to defeat request for plea withdrawal (see sec. 10.4515) ...................... 10-42
10.4217 Particular circumstances that will, or will not, constitute fair and just reason for plea withdrawal ...................................................... 10-42 10.42171 Lack of knowledge of consequences of plea: in general ...................................................................................... 10-42
10.42172 Lack of knowledge of consequences of plea: lack of knowledge of sex offender registration requirement ............................................................................. 10-42
10.42173 Lack of knowledge of consequences of plea: lack of knowledge of possibility of chap. 980 commitment ............................................................................ 10-42
10.42174 Claim of innocence (see sec. 10.42193) ................................ 10-43
10.42175 Defendant's recalculation of chances at trial ...................... 10-43
10.42176 Genuine misunderstanding of plea's consequences
.................................................................................................... 10-43
10.42177 Haste and confusion in entering plea ................................ 10-43
10.42178 Coercion on part of defense counsel ................................. 10-43
10.42179 Confusion resulting from misleading advice from defense counsel ....................................................................... 10-43

10.4218 Particular circumstances that will, or will not, constitute fair and just reason for plea withdrawal (cont'd) ................................. 10-43 10.42181 Defendant's misunderstanding about whether he or she would be guaranteed opportunity to work with law enforcement and thereby provide reason for leniency in sentencing ............................................................... 10-43 10.42182 Defendant's misunderstanding that grade of offense could be reduced at sentencing if state failed to prove nonexistence of mitigating factor that would reduce grade of offense ........................................ 10-43
10.42183 Unfulfilled hopes in general .................................................. 10-43
10.42184 Defendant's acceptance of court's offer of plea withdrawal after court informs defendant that it intends to reject sentence recommendation in plea agreement (see sec. 7.2482) .................................................... 10-43

10.4219 Other matters ............................................................................................................. 10-43

10.42191 When defendant's reason for plea withdrawal relates to sentencing rather than to plea, and concern can be adequately addressed by other means, trial court does not abuse its discretion in concluding that concern does not constitute fair and just reason for withdrawal of plea ......................... 10-44

10.42192 In assessing whether this standard met, trial court may consider fact that defendant waited until he saw content of presentence report before he sought plea withdrawal ............................................. 10-44

10.42193 In assessing whether this standard met, assertion of innocence is important, but not dispositive (i.e., claim of innocence does not in itself ordinarily provide fair and just reason for plea withdrawal) .......... 10-44

10.42194 In assessing whether this standard met, court may consider delay in seeking plea withdrawal ..................... 10-44

10.42195 In assessing whether this standard met, court may consider promptness with which motion to withdraw plea brought .......................................................... 10-44

10.42196 When pre-sentencing motion not only not filed within time set by court, but defendant also affirmatively tells lawyer not to file motion, defendant has waived right to later file motion on day of sentencing .......................................................... 10-44

10.42197 No need to make assertion of innocence to establish fair and just reason for plea withdrawal .......... 10-44

10.422 Test for plea withdrawal after sentencing: manifest injustice ........................................... 10-45

10.4221 In general ............................................................................................................. 10-45

10.4222 When this standard applicable ................................................................. 10-47

10.4223 Particular circumstances that constitute manifest injustice ................................. 10-47

10.42231 Failure to establish factual basis for plea .................................................. 10-47

10.42232 Plea was not knowingly, voluntarily and intelligently entered ................................................. 10-47

10.42233 Failure to make plea voluntarily ................................................................. 10-47

10.42234 Lack of knowledge of charge or potential punishment ..................................................... 10-47

10.42235 Substantial and material breach of plea agreement by state ................................................................. 10-48

10.42236 Ineffective assistance of counsel ................................................................. 10-48
10.4224 When manifest injustice consists of lack of information, or misinformation, regarding matter essential to knowing, intelligent and voluntary plea (e.g., range of potential punishment, nature of rights being waiving, etc.), defendant is not required to show that lack of information or misinformation caused him to enter plea in order to obtain withdrawal of plea (see sec. 10.4235) .......................................................... 10-48

10.4225 Assertion of innocence is important factor, but not dispositive ........................................................................................................ 10-48

10.4226 Other matters .......................................................................................... 10-48

10.42261 Effect of defendant's disclaimer of any dissatisfaction with counsel .................................................................................. 10-48

10.42262 Effect of defendant's waiting to see what sentence he faced before bringing motion to withdraw plea ........................................... 10-48

10.423 Failure to meet due process standard of being knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily entered ........................................................................................................ 10-48

10.4231 General principles ..................................................................................... 10-48

10.42311 In general ................................................................................................ 10-48

10.42312 Statutory violation in taking plea does not automatically translate into constitutional violation ............................................................................. 10-50

10.42313 Plea may meet this standard even though defendant may be laboring under various forms of misapprehension regarding circumstances surrounding entry of plea ........................................................................... 10-50

10.42314 When trial court complies with mandated procedures designed to assure that plea is knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily entered (e.g., questioning ascertaining defendant's understanding of information necessary to knowing and intelligent plea, questioning ascertaining voluntariness of plea, etc.) may defendant later contend that he lied in answering trial court's questions in attempt to show unconstitutional plea? (see sec. 10.4997) .................................................. 10-50

10.42315 When defendant is not informed, or is misinformed, regarding matter essential to knowing, intelligent and voluntary plea (e.g., range of potential punishment, nature of rights being waiving, etc.), or claims misunderstanding that undermines knowing and intelligent nature of plea, defendant is not required to show that lack of information, misinformation, or misunderstanding caused him to enter plea in order to obtain withdrawal of plea .................................................. 10-51

10.42316 When defendant is not aware of potential punishment, plea is not knowingly, intelligently and voluntarily entered ........................................................................................................ 10-51

10.4232 Determining whether plea was knowingly and intelligently entered: general principles .......................................................................................... 10-51
10.4231 In general ................................................................. 10-51
10.4232 Defendant's understanding of rights he is waiving must exist at time of plea; earlier understanding is not sufficient (see sec. 10.42433) ........................................... 10-51
10.4233 Determining whether plea was knowingly and intelligently entered; particular circumstances ........................................................... 10-51
10.4234 Determining whether plea was voluntary: general principles ...................................................................................................................... 10-52
10.4235 Determining whether plea was voluntary: particular circumstances ............................................................................................ 10-52
10.4236 Determining whether plea was voluntary: particular circumstances (cont’d) .............................................................................. 10-52
10.4237 Pressure from family and/or friends .................................. 10-52
10.4238 Counsel's threat to withdraw from representation on eve of trial if defendant did not plead guilty ............................... 10-52
10.4239 Coercion by defense counsel ................................................. 10-52
10.4240 Defendant's belief that counsel was unprepared to defend him at trial ............................................................. 10-53
10.4237 Trial court’s commenting on strength of state’s case and urging defendant to consider entry of guilty plea do not necessarily render subsequent plea involuntary .................................. 10-53

10.424 Failure to comply, on record at time of plea taking, with mandated procedures relating to information trial court required to impart to pleading defendant (e.g., nature of charge, possible penalties, rights being waived, etc.) and relating to other matters necessary for valid plea (e.g., establishment of factual basis for plea) (Bangert analysis) ............ 10-53

10.4241 General principles ................................................................. 10-53
  10.42411 In general ............................................................................. 10-53
  10.42412 Application of Bangert analysis to failure to establish factual basis for plea ...................................... 10-54
  10.42413 Bangert requirements and analysis not applicable to read-in offenses that trial court does not deem admitted ................................................................. 10-54

10.4242 Defendant's obligation to make prima facie showing that court violated mandatory duties and to allege that he or she did not know information that court was required to provide: in general .................................................................................... 10-54

10.4243 Defendant's obligation to make prima facie showing that court violated mandatory duties and to allege that he or she did not know information that court was required to provide: obligation to show that court violated mandatory duties .......................................................................................................... 10-55
  10.42431 In general ............................................................................. 10-55
  10.42432 Sufficiency of showing ........................................................... 10-55
  10.42433 When duty to establish factual basis violated .................... 10-55

10.4244 Defendant's obligation to make prima facie showing that court violated mandatory duties and to allege that he or she did not know information that court was required to provide: obligation to allege that he or she did not know information that court was required to provide ................................... 10-56
  10.42441 In general ............................................................................. 10-56
  10.42442 Necessity of allegation ........................................................... 10-56
  10.42443 Sufficiency of allegation; conclusory allegation will suffice ............................................................................... 10-56
  10.42444 State's waiver of argument that this obligation was not met by its failure to make that argument in trial court ................................................................. 10-56
  10.42445 Signed plea questionnaire containing required information does not conclusively establish knowledge (see sec. 10.42436) ................................................... 10-56
  10.42446 Defendant not required to submit sworn affidavit ............ 10-56
  10.42447 When duty to establish factual basis for plea violated ................................................................. 10-56

10.4245 State's burden, once defendant makes prima facie showing, to demonstrate validity of plea (e.g., that defendant knew information trial court was required to provide) ...................................... 10-56
  10.42451 In general ............................................................................. 10-56
10.42452 In sustaining burden, state may resort to entire record and to evidence produced at withdrawal hearing ..................................................................................... 10-57
10.42453 To sustain burden, state must show that defendant knew information at time of plea; showing of knowledge at prior time is not sufficient ..................................................................................... 10-58
10.42454 Use of guilty plea questionnaire to sustain burden: in general ................................................................................................................................. 10-58
10.42455 Use of guilty plea questionnaire to sustain burden: questionnaire that is in foreign language spoken by defendant will not suffice to sustain burden in absence of English translation of form in record ................................................................................... 10-58
10.42456 Use of guilty plea questionnaire to sustain burden: signed plea questionnaire containing required information does not conclusively establish knowledge of that information .......................................... 10-58
10.42457 Remedy when state has failed to sustain burden: state not entitled to remand for "second kick at the cat" ............................................................................................ 10-58
10.42458 When, on appeal, appellate court concludes that defendant sustained his obligation in trial court to make prima facie showing, it may be appropriate to remand case to trial court to give state opportunity to sustain its burden to demonstrate that defendant nevertheless knew information trial court was required to provide ...................................... 10-58
10.42459 In proving valid waiver of rights, state may rely on trial court's reference, in high-volume traffic and misdemeanor courts, to court's recitation en masse of constitutional rights at start of proceedings and then incorporation of that recitation by reference as each individual defendant's case is called ........................................................................ 10-59
10.4246 State's burden, once defendant makes prima facie showing, to demonstrate validity of plea (e.g., that defendant knew information trial court was required to provide) (cont'd) .................. 10-59
10.42461 In sustaining burden, state may call defendant to stand and examine him regarding plea ................................................................. 10-59
10.42462 If defendant refuses to testify, trial court may draw negative inference from that refusal ............................................................ 10-59
10.42463 In sustaining burden, state may call defense counsel to stand and examine him regarding plea ................................................................. 10-59
10.42464 Trial court errs as matter of law if it grants plea withdrawal motion without allowing state opportunity to prove plea was knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily entered ................................................................. 10-59
10.42465 If state is unable to sustain this burden, it cannot avoid plea withdrawal by showing that lack of knowledge of required information did not cause, or otherwise affect, decision to plead guilty (see sec. 10.42463) ........................................................................... 10-59

10.42466 If defendant fails to make prima facie showing, no burden shifts to state .......................................................... 10-59

10.42467 When court failed to establish factual basis for plea ........................................................................................... 10-59

10.4247 Improper factors to consider in engaging in Bangert analysis to determine whether guilty or no contest plea should be allowed to be withdrawn ........................................................................ 10-60

10.42471 Likely outcome if case goes to trial .............................................. 10-60

10.42472 Victim's situation and feelings .............................................. 10-60

10.42473 Whether defendant's lack of knowledge of information trial court was required to provide caused, or otherwise affected, decision to plead guilty (see sec. 10.42463) ........................................................ 10-60

10.4248 Other matters ............................................................................................. 10-60

10.42481 Bangert analysis (including requirement that entire record be examined to determine whether guilty plea valid) applies to allegation that trial court failed to establish factual basis for plea at time of plea hearing (see sec. 10.42412) .......................................................... 10-60

10.42482 Trial court errs if it places any burden on defendant to establish basis for plea withdrawal after defendant makes prima facie showing that court violated mandatory duties and alleges that he or she did not know information that court was required to provide .......................................................... 10-60

10.42483 Trial court errs as matter of law if it grants plea withdrawal motion without allowing state opportunity to prove plea was knowingly, intelligently, and voluntarily entered .......................................................... 10-60

10.42484 When trial court complies with mandated procedures relating to information trial court is required to impart to pleading defendant, and trial court ascertains from defendant that he understands required information, may defendant later contend that he lied in answering trial court's questions in attempt to show unconstitutional plea? (see sec. 10.4997) ........................................................................... 10-60

10.42485 If state is unable to sustain burden to show that defendant actually knew information trial court was required to provide notwithstanding trial court's failure to provide it, state cannot avoid plea withdrawal by showing that lack of knowledge of required information did not cause, or otherwise affect, decision to plead guilty ....................... 10-60
10.42486  Defendant's right to evidentiary hearing under Bangert cannot be circumvented by either court or state asserting that based on record as a whole, defendant, despite defective plea colloquy, entered constitutionally sound plea (see sec. 10.4622) ..................................................................................... 10-61

10.42487  Adequate and accurate plea colloquy (i.e., one that is not subject to challenge under Bangert) cannot be relied on to deny defendant hearing on motion to withdraw plea based on non-Bangert grounds, i.e., on something outside of plea colloquy .............................................................................................. 10-61

10.425  Failure, in federal court, to comply, on record at time of plea taking, with procedures mandated by Fed. Rule Crim. Proc. 11 relating to information trial court required to impart to pleading defendant ........................................................................ 10-61

10.4251  In general ................................................................................................... 10-61

10.4252  To be entitled to plea withdrawal, a defendant who lets Rule 11 error pass without objection must satisfy Rule 52(b)'s plain-error rule, i.e., must show that error affected his or her substantial rights .............................................................................................. 10-61

10.42521  In general ................................................................................. 10-61

10.42522  To show that error affected substantial rights, defendant must show reasonable probability that, but for the error, he or she would not have pleaded guilty .............................................................................................. 10-61

10.4253  When defendant has objected to Rule 11 error, error does not entitle defendant to relief if government can show that error did not affect defendant's substantial rights ........................................................................ 10-61

10.4254  In determining whether Rule 11 error has affected substantial rights, reviewing court may examine whole record, not simply that made at plea hearing ........................................................................ 10-61

10.426  Denial of constitutional right occurring outside of plea process ........................................................................ 10-61

10.4261  In general ................................................................................................... 10-61

10.4262  State's failure to disclose exculpatory evidence (see sec. 10.436) ......................................................................................................... 10-62

10.427  Other matters .......................................................................................................... 10-62

10.4271  In federal court, defendant has no absolute right to withdraw plea after acceptance by district court but before district court decides whether to accept plea agreement; in such situation, defendant must show "fair and just reason" for plea withdrawal ........................................................................ 10-62

10.43  Particular Grounds That May Or May Not Be Grounds For Plea Withdrawal ........................................................................ 10-62

10.431  Failure of trial court to comply with particular obligations in accepting guilty plea .............................................................................................. 10-62

10.4313  Failure to establish defendant's knowledge and understanding of nature of crime and range of punishments ........................................................................ 10-62

10.43132 Range of punishments (see sec. 7.2132) ........................................ 10-62 10.4314 Failure to establish voluntariness of plea (i.e., whether any promises or threats have been made) (see sec. 7.214) ............................. 10-62 10.4315 Failure to advise unrepresented defendant about representation by counsel (see sec. 7.215) ............................................. 10-62

admits constitutes offense to which he is pleading guilty
(i.e., failure to establish factual basis for plea) (see sec. 7.216) ....... 10-62
10.4317 Failure to advise defendant of constitutional rights he is waiving by entry of plea and to secure waiver of them (see sec. 7.217) ................................................................................................... 10-62

recommendation and plea agreement is not binding on trial court (see sec. 7.2191) .................................................. 10-62 consequences of plea (see secs. 7.2194 and 7.2195)......... 10-62

of plea (see sec. 7.2192) ........................................................................... 10-63

eligibility, including possibility that trial court may set parole eligibility date (see sec. 7.2196) .................. 10-63

    10.43221 Failure to investigate certain alibi witnesses ...................... 10-63 convicted of both offenses to which he pleaded guilty (e.g., felony murder and underlying felony)

confession was coerced and given without another, e.g. family member (see sec. 10.42359) ........................................ 10-66

10.61 Standards For Granting Relief; Particular Matters That May Or May Not Be Grounds For Relief .................................................................................................................. 10-91
10.611 In general .................................................................................................................... 10-92
10.612 Standards for granting relief ........................................................................................ 10-92
10.6121 First standard: Claim that was adjudicated on merits in state court may not be ground for relief unless adjudication of claim "resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States" ......................................................... 10-92
10.61211 In general ................................................................................................................. 10-92
10.61212 "Contrary to" ........................................................................................................... 10-92
10.61213  "Unreasonable application of" .............................................. 10-93
10.61214  "Clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States": in general ................................................................. 10-93
10.61215  "Clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States": limited to constitutional decisions ..................................... 10-93
10.61216  "Clearly established law" refers to law established by Supreme Court decisions at time of relevant state-court decision ...................................................... 10-93
10.61217  "Clearly established law" refers to holdings, as opposed to dicta, of Supreme Court decisions ...................... 10-93
10.61218  In applying this standard, federal court is limited to consideration of record state court had before it .......... 10-93
10.61219  In applying this standard, federal courts are not free to presume that state court did not comply with constitutional dictates on basis of nothing more than lack of citation to controlling federal or state decision ................................................................. 10-93
10.6122  First standard: Claim that was adjudicated on merits in state court may not be ground for relief unless adjudication of claim "resulted in a decision that was contrary to, or involved an unreasonable application of, clearly established Federal law, as determined by the Supreme Court of the United States" (cont'd) ................................................................. 10-94
10.61221  When state court's adjudication of claim is dependent on antecedent unreasonable application of federal law, this standard is met ...................... 10-94
10.61222  Application of this standard when constitutional defect in instructions is alleged ...................... 10-94
10.61223  Application of this standard when claim of ineffective assistance of counsel is made ...................... 10-94
10.61224  Habeas court not required to review state court decision de novo before applying this standard ...................... 10-94
10.61225  Does this standard apply when it is unclear whether state court addressed claim (e.g., when state court rejected claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, but it is unclear whether decision was based on finding of no deficient performance or no prejudice) (see sec. 10.61243) ................................................................. 10-94
10.6123  Second standard: Claim that was adjudicated on merits in state court may not be ground for relief unless adjudication of claim "resulted in a decision that was based on an unreasonable determination of the facts in light of the evidence presented in the State court proceeding" ...................... 10-94
10.61231  In general ................................................................. 10-94
10.61232  Presumption of correctness of state court findings on factual issues in general (see sec. 10.641) ...................... 10-94
10.6123 Relationship of this standard to presumption of correctness of state court findings on factual issues set out in § 2254(e)(1) ................................. 10-94
10.6124 State court determination of facts not rendered unreasonable merely because federal habeas court would have reached different conclusion in first instance .............................................................. 10-94
10.6124 Principles governing application of standards .................................. 10-95
10.61241 Presumption that state courts know and follow law ................................. 10-95
10.61242 Highly deferential standard for evaluating state-court rulings, which demands that state court decisions be given benefit of the doubt .................................. 10-95
10.61243 Deferential standards not applicable when state courts did not reach merits of petitioner's claim .................... 10-95
10.61244 Do these deferential standards apply when it is unclear whether state court addressed claim (e.g., when state court rejected claim of ineffective assistance of counsel, but it is unclear whether decision was based on finding of no deficient performance or no prejudice) ........................................ 10-95
10.613 Particular matters that may or may not be grounds for relief .................... 10-95

10.6132 Fourth Amendment issues ...................................................................... 10-95
10.6133 When state conviction based on guilty plea ......................................... 10-95
10.6134 Ineffective assistance of counsel claim predicated on failure to raise fourth amendment claim ......................................................... 10-95
10.6135 Sufficiency of evidence to convict ......................................................... 10-95
10.61351 In general ....................................................................................... 10-95
10.61352 In assessing whether evidence was insufficient to convict, court may only assess evidence introduced at trial; consideration of evidence adduced post-trial, casting doubt on evidence adduced at trial, is inappropriate (see sec. 19.562) ............ 10-96
10.61353 It is not error to cast test of sufficiency of evidence in terms of "reasonable" jury, rather than "rational" one, and that asks whether jury could be convinced of defendant's guilt, rather than whether it could be convinced of each element of crime (see sec. 19.563) ................................................................. 10-96
10.61354 In assessing whether evidence was insufficient to convict, court must review evidence in light most favorable to prosecution (see sec. 19.564) ......................... 10-96
10.61355 In assessing whether evidence was insufficient to convict, court must assume that trier of fact resolved any conflicts in testimony, or conflicts in inferences drawn from historical facts, in favor or prosecution (see sec. 19.565) ......................................................... 10-96

Even though original dispositional order did not, and could not have (because of juvenile's age), placed juvenile in secured correctional facility, juvenile is subject to commitment if, as a result of commission of subsequent offenses that did not qualify as sexually violent offenses, juvenile was placed in secured correctional facility based at least in part on original sexually violent offense (see sec. 10.7244).

Juvenile may collaterally attack, as void, dispositional order that subjected him or her to commitment.

Person found not guilty of sexually violent offense by reason of mental disease or defect.

Person must be within 90 days of discharge or release from sentence, from secured correctional facility, etc., or from commitment order (see sec. 10.7244).

Other persons.

Pre-petition evaluation and referral.

Evaluation process: confidentiality issues.

No need for Miranda warnings before commencement of pre-petition psychological interview (see sec. 10.79249).

Person subject to pre-petition evaluation has right to remain silent at evaluation interview (see sec. 10.79251).

During evaluation process, district attorney may contact appropriate agency about case, seek clarification of evaluator's determination that person does not meet criteria for being sexually violent person, express dissatisfaction with that determination, correct factual mistakes, provide new or additional information, and/or request second opinion with different evaluator.

Petition.

Who may file.
